DCBOE Announces BallotTrax Feature on Website is Now Live Allowing Voters to Track Their Ballot

WASHINGTON, DC -- The District of Columbia Board of Elections (DCBOE) today announced that BallotTrax is now live on the DCBOE's website, letting voters track their ballot.

Used by several jurisdictions around the country, BallotTrax allows voters to register/login as a user and follow their ballot. The system tracks the Intelligent Mail Barcode as it is scanned by the U.S. Postal Service (USPS) so a voter can see where their ballot is as it makes its way through the USPS system.

Voters can receive information on their cell phone or by email, or by logging in to the BallotTrax portal.

Once DC BOE receives the ballot, either via USPS or collected from a Mail Ballot Drop Box, the envelopes will be scanned by the DCBOE's Mail Ballot Sorter and notification is uploaded to the tracker. After scanning, the voter's signature is reviewed and the tracker is again updated with the disposition of the ballot. The voter will know if the signature has been accepted, if the signature is missing, or if there is a signature discrepancy. If there is no signature or a signature discrepancy, the voter has until November 13, to cure the signature. If the signature is accepted, the envelope is opened and the ballot is separated for counting.

DCBallotTrax voter portal can be found at: www.dcboe.org or <https://votedc.ballottrax.net/voter/>

The District of Columbia Board of Elections is an independent agency of the District of Columbia Government responsible for the administration of elections, ballot access, and voter registration.
